You may add a page to answer these questions in more detail. Remember teachers will use this information to write better recommendations.

What are the first words that should come to mind when a teacher is describing you, why?

Please write whatever you think is important about you as a student, including a description of your academic and personal characteristics.

Name some of your best assignments/papers/activities that you completed for each teacher.

For each assignment (you should list two or three for each teacher to use):

- (a) give specific information about what you gained or learned
- (b) list positive feedback you received from the teacher
- (c) why you feel it was one of your best accomplishments

List your three most important traits. Give examples from classes or activities, which will allow the teacher to connect these traits to performance.

Most colleges ask teachers to address these questions. Please answer each question according to how you hope the teachers will address the questions:

1. How do you handle adversity, deal with pressure or react to teacher criticism?

2. How do you display classroom leadership?

3. How do contribute to the classroom?
